ROOSEVELT SHOT BY AN ASSASSIN

CONVICTS FREE HAVING ESCAPED INTO FOOTHILLS

Governor Carey of Wyoming Goes to Rawlins to Take Personal Pursuit of Men

TEN PRISONERS STILL AT LARGE

Fugitives Are Known to Be Desperate and Are Led by Notorious Jim Dalton, Robber

RAWLINGS, Oct. 14.—Governor Carey was expected here tonight to take personal charge of the pursuit of the escaped convicts and the restoration of discipline.

Citizens are planning a law for the whole penitentiary situation before the executive arrives. Warden Alston, refused to make any statement regarding the two breaks.

Ten of the nineteen convicts, who, led by the notorious Jim Dalton, member of the Whitney gang of bank robbers, escaped through a broken fence in the penitentiary yard, were still at large tonight and the possibility of their recapture was remote since they gained the hills north of the town before night-fall.

Scattered Shots Heard. Scattered shots, echoing faintly through the darkness indicate that some of the searching party have either come upon the fugitives or are infected with the panic that reigns in the homes of Rawlins tonight.

The town is being patrolled by armed citizens, the railroad station and tracks are guarded and men and women sit in their homes tonight with weapons close at hand listening for intruders.

Desperate Fugitives. The fugitives are known to be the most desperate of the penitentiary inmates, led by the desperado Dalton, at first reported captured, and will take a long chance to secure weapons and clothes.

The return of terror which holds the town tonight began at three o'clock when from the penitentiary burst a bedlam of shouts of convicts and through the streets of the northern part of the town nineteen close-cropped hard featured men in the prison uniform ran in a body.

Horses tethered in front of saloons were grabbed by the leaders, and bore them away at break-neck speed through the town and away to the hills, outdistancing the guards that closed in the rear of the fugitives after losing precious minutes investigating the cause of the uproar in the cells.

DISEASE QUARANTINED.

SALT LAKE, Oct. 14.—D. C. Jackson, general manager of the Utah Copper company at Garfield, defied the men there struck today. He said there had been some discharges but no strike. It was first reported that the men in the smelter struck when they were asked to handle non-union ore.

TURKEY GOES INTO BALKANS

Ottoman Empire Declines Proffered Interference to Its Proposed Reforms in Macedonia

MONTENEGRANS BUSY

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Turkey took up today the gauntlet thrown down by the Balkan states, and events in the east crowded close on one another to hasten what is believed to be an inevitable general outbreak. The sultan's government formally declined the proffered interference in its proposed introduction of reforms in Macedonia and incidentally assumed the offensive and invaded Serbia. All the Balkan representatives in Constantinople were notified by the Ottoman government today to make ready to leave at a moment's notice.

Participation of Greece in the conflict was almost assured by the sultan's government's deliverance of an ultimatum demanding the release of Greek ships seized at Constantinople. Success follows Greece.

More success has followed the determined advance of Montenegrans troops under King Nicholas and Prince Danillo. The Montenegrans lost 100 men in their attack on the Turkish city of Eysopolys in Sanjak of Novi-Pazar, says the official report of the Montenegrin consul general here, and the Turks who died are said to have suffered heavily.

Turks Are Defeated. Gen. Martinovich's troops encountered a body of Turks from Tarsakos and inflicted a loss of 300 killed and wounded. The Montenegrans losing nearly 100.

Martinovich burned several Turkish block houses and forts and then crossed the river Boyana. The Malisovri tribesmen have joined the Montenegrans in Soutari neighborhood. The Balkan situation has caused a loss in consols on the London stock exchange today, establishing a new low record of 72-54.

OPENING ROAD IN OREGON. EUGENE, Ore., Oct. 14.—With the arrival at noon tomorrow of an excursion train from Portland—the first over the new Oregon Electric railway—citizens of Eugene and vicinity join in a parade, speechmaking and banquet in celebration of the coming of the Hill railroad into a territory that for forty years or more has had but one railroad, the Southern Pacific line. Less than two years ago the Oregon Electric announced its intention to build a 70-mile extension from Salem, the State capital, to Eugene, at the head of the Willamette valley, and tomorrow the first trains will be run and schedules established.

Impelled by the building of the Oregon Electric, the Southern Pacific, under the name of the Portland, Eugene and Eastern, is building a section of road 24 miles long to connect with Cervallia, and will electrify all its west side lines, so as to give a second electric line to Portland. Grading of this latter road is about complete, and service will begin about the first of the year.

BUCKEYE STATE LABOR MEETING. CANTON, O., Oct. 14.—With a large and representative attendance the annual convention of the Ohio State Federation of Labor met here today and began its business. The sessions will continue for four or five days. The annual reports of the officers and committee show the past year to have been one of extraordinary activity and prosperity for the labor organizations of Ohio. The legislative committee succeeded in securing many favorable planks in the constitutional amendments and plans will be discussed to secure the passage of other laws of benefit to organized labor at the next session of the legislature.

NEW YORK IS WINNER UNDER BIG ADVANTAGE

Gothamites Secure Lead in First Inning and Boston Unable to Push McGraw's Men Aside

COLLINS PITCHES A BAIL THAT'S VICTOR

Bean Eaters' Star Mound Man Called to Box Too Late to Score But No Runs Made on Him

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The fighting today in the last trench was such that the New York Nationals repulsed the onrush of the Boston Americans, and sent the Red Sox back to defeat by the score of 5 to 6 in the sixth game of the world's series. The victory for the Sox would have carried with it the title of world's champions for 1912.

When "Rube" Marquard walked off the polo grounds with his second triumph over Boston tucked away, he was elated. His pitching arm is such that New York took hope that the Giants might be able to capture two more games and bring the title to this city.

Boston in Lead. The world's series now stands, Boston three games won; New York two games won; one contest a tie. On the turf just back of first base, while thirty thousand spectators were leaving the grounds, Managers Stahl and McGraw tossed a coin to determine in which city the deciding game should be played in the event New York won tomorrow in Boston. The Boston won. All the remaining games will be played at Boston's field.

President Taft, on his yacht Merganser, kept in touch with the game by wireless while he was reviewing the battleship fleet in the Hudson river. The final scores also were zigzagged from ship to ship all along the line, so every man aboard the ships could know the progress of the game.

Action in First Two Innings. All the action in today's game came early, and when the smoke of battle flowed away at the end of the second inning, the score stood 5 to 2 in favor of the Giants. Thereafter neither side could add a tally in the face of the superb twirling of the two left handers, "Rube" Marquard and Ray Collins. The Boston south-paw had been called to the firing line after the Giants had touched off an explosion of hits of "Rube" O'Brien, the moist ball pitcher. The fusillade of his came with such suddenness that for the first time in the series the Boston infield was unable to meet the attack of the New Yorks.

O'Brien Balked. Two crisp doubles, four singles and a balk by O'Brien, double-netted the New Yorks five runs in the first inning. The four singles were given by the Giants in a slow in-flood of errors which on the soggy diamond were difficult to handle. Boston made its tallies in the second on Marquard's error on Gardner's grounder and a hit by Stahl, a two-base smash by Enrie, who batted for O'Brien.

"Rube" Marquard curved them over the heads of the last ones around the bases, then sent up his last ones around the bases of the Boston batters. One of the results of Marquard's service was the great day for the Giant outfielder trio of gardener—Murray, Snodgrass and Devore, who covered acres of ground and gobbled up no less than fifteen fly balls.

Murray is Hot One. Of these, "Red" Murray, in the right garden, whose fiery looks seemed to glow as a beacon to the Boston batters, so many drives did they send his way, captured seven, while Snodgrass took six and Devore two.

The Bostonians fought gamely to overcome the lead of five runs, which the Giants piled up at the start. The Red Sox made two tallies in the second, but the attack was broken in the third, with a brilliant catch made by Snodgrass. This play was a turning point in Boston's offense. Stahl made first on a hit when Wagner drove a screaming liner to deep center. Snodgrass turned and O'Brien, the drive looked good for a home run with Stahl turning second and with Wagner turning first, when Snodgrass caught the ball as it came over his shoulder.

Boston at End. That ended the game for Boston, with the exception in the eighth that Marquard sent the Red Sox back to the bench in one, two, three order in every inning.

Collins pitched a fine game, and in the seven innings the Giants faced him, not one run was scored.

"Things might have been a little different had Collins been sent in in the first inning," remarked Stahl, "but it was a dark day, the kind just suited to O'Brien's fast ball. But O'Brien didn't get any breaks and we have to try to end the series tomorrow."

"We have made a start, and ex-

CAVALRYMAN ACCUSED OF ROBBING CHINESE

Alleged Cousin of Virginia Allen in Jail Charged with Stealing from Oriental

HARRY O. ALLEN, a private of Troop C, Fourth Cavalry, who says that he is a first cousin of Sidsa Allen, the noted Virginia outlaw, who with relatives shot up a Virginia court, is in jail at Fort Huachuca, charged with robbing Chinese on the reservation of $275, and robbing the owner of the Sutherland ranch of $12.

Allen was on a west bound train when he was arrested Sunday by Deputy Sheriff Allie Howe and returned to the fort, where he will be held and tried on the charge of robbery, the government having jurisdiction, as the crime was committed on the reservation.

Steals From Ranch. The robbery of the Sutherland ranch occurred several days ago, while Allen, with other soldiers, was patrolling in the Huachuca. It is said that he entered the ranch house and stole twelve dollars. He was taken to Fort Huachuca for examination on that charge, but it appears that he was not deprived of his liberty, as the robbery of the Chinaman was committed then.

The Chinaman owns a restaurant on the reservation. On the day of the robbery he placed his money under the counter, and it is believed that Allen saw him put it there, and later returned to get it. The money, amounting to $275, was missing when the Chinaman returned to look for it.

Howe Gets Him on Train. Allen, it is said, stole a horse from the post stables and rode to Lewis Springs, where he discarded his mount and took a train for the west. Deputy Sheriff Allie Howe was on the train, and when he got off at Fairbank to catch the train for Tombstone, the telegraph operator told him of the robberies and gave Allen's description.

"He is on the train now," the deputy remarked, and got back on the train, where he placed Allen under arrest and took him to Tombstone, later taking him to Fort Huachuca, where he turned him over to the commanding officer. Allen had $264 on his person when he was arrested by Officer Howe.

Rewards totaling $100 will be paid to Deputy Sheriff Howe. The Chinaman restaurant offered a reward of $50, and the government officers a reward of $50.

STRIKEBREAKERS AT WORK

BINGHAM, Oct. 14.—Before daylight today a trainload of Americans from Chicago, New York and other eastern cities, reached Bingham. At once they were taken to the Utah copper plant and put to work. The train was carefully guarded but there was no demonstration.

COLONEL'S LIFE SAVED BY A BUNDLE OF MANUSCRIPT

Fanatic at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, as Former President Is About to Take Seat in His Automobile, Takes Careful Aim But Rough Rider's Life Is Saved by Bundle of Papers Retarding Speed of Bullet.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 14.—Col. Roosevelt was shot and slightly wounded tonight as he was leaving Gilpatrick hotel for the coliseum to make a speech. His wound is superficial and the colonel went on and began his speech after he had seen his assassin arrested and taken to the police station.

Henry F. Cochems seized the assassin and held him until the policemen came up. The mob surged around the man who apparently was "radical" on the subject of Roosevelt running for another term. The man is small in stature and admitted firing the shot and said "any man looking for a third term ought to be shot." In notes found in his pockets at the police station were statements that the man had been visited in a dream by the spirit of McKinley who had said, indicating Roosevelt: "This is my murderer, avenge my death." Roosevelt was taken to the emergency hospital.

Writes Proclamation. The would-be assassin is five feet, five inches in height and weighs 170 pounds, of light complexion and bald. He had written a proclamation which was found in his clothing and reads: "Sept. 15, 1901, 1:30 a. m. In a dream I saw President McKinley sitting in a monk's attire by whose side I recognized Theodore Roosevelt. The dead president said: 'This is my murderer; avenge my death.'"

Sept. 15, 1902, 1:30 a. m. While writing a poem, someone tapped me on the shoulder and said: 'Let not a murderer take the presidential chair; avenge my death.' "I could plainly see Mr. McKinley's features. Before the Almighty God I swear this above writing is nothing but the truth."

Third Term His Protest. Another note found in his pockets reads: "So long as Japan could rise to be the greatest power in the world, despite of her surviving tradition more than two thousand years old, as General Knox so nobly demonstrated, it is the duty of the United States of America to uphold the third term tradition. Let every third term be regarded as a traitor to the American cause. Let it be the right and duty of every citizen to forcibly remove a third term."

Life Saved by Papers. Roosevelt's life probably was saved by the manuscript of his speech delivered tonight. The bullet struck his manuscript which retarded the force as it passed through into the flesh. The assassin was prevented from firing a second shot by Albert H. Martin, one of Col. Roosevelt's two secretaries. Col. Roosevelt just stepped into the automobile when the assassin pushed his way through the crowd into the street and fired. Secretary Martin, who was standing in the car with the colonel, leaped on the man's shoulders and bore him to the ground.

Will Speak or Die. "I will deliver this speech or die, one or the other," was Colonel Roosevelt's reply. Despite the protests of the physicians, the Colonel strode out of his dressing room to the stage. Several thousand persons, who packed the big auditorium, cheered as he entered, and without a word indicating what had happened, went to his seat.

For several minutes the crowd, no man of whom suspected the Colonel bore a bullet in his body, kept up the cheering. Then Colonel Cochems stepped to the front of the platform and held up his hand. There was something in his manner that had an effect on the crowd, and the cheering died suddenly away.

"I have something to tell you," Col. Cochems said, "and I hope you will receive the news with calmness." His voice shook as he spoke, and a death-like stillness settled over the throng. "Colonel Roosevelt has been shot; he is wounded," he said in a low tone, but such was the stillness that everyone heard it. A cry of astonishment and horror went up from the crowd, which was thrown into confusion in an instant. Cochems turned and looked inquiringly at Roosevelt.

"Tell us, are you hurt?" he asked. The men and women shouted wildly. Some rose from their seats and rushed forward to look more closely at Colonel Roosevelt, who rose and walked to the edge of the platform to quiet the crowd.

Raised Hand and Stills Crowd. He raised his hand and instantly there was silence. "It's true," he said. Then slowly he unbuttoned his coat and placed his hand in his breast. Those in the front of the crowd could catch sight of his blood-stained garment.

"I'm going to ask you to be very quiet," said Roosevelt. "Please excuse me from making a very long speech. I'll do the best I can, but you see there is a bullet in my body. This is nothing. I'm not hurt badly."

A sigh of relief went up from the crowd. "I'm going to ask you to be very quiet," said Roosevelt. "Please excuse me from making a very long speech. I'll do the best I can, but you see there is a bullet in my body. This is nothing. I'm not hurt badly."
